

Spring 2– Homework Challenges

Physical and well being	Creative	Reading	Written
Spring is nearly here! Go for a walk. Can you spot any of the new wildlife or flowers and take or draw a picture of them? Some examples are bluebells, daffodils and lambs.	Go and visit Salts Mill in Saltaire. Take a look at some of the work by artist David Hockney. Draw Salts Mill in the style of David Hockney. Make sure to use lots of colour and mimic his unusual style. 	Write a book review about a favourite text that you have read this half term. Comment on: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>-The Plot (Fiction) or subject (Non-Fiction)</li> <li>- Characters or key facts</li> <li>- Why you would recommend it?</li> <li>- Your favourite part</li> </ul>	Write a fact file about Sir Titus Salt or Saltaire. Use what you have learnt at school as well as your own research.
Our PSHE unit this term is on mental health and wellbeing. Spend some time doing something that is good for your mental wellbeing. This could be partaking in your favourite sport, reading a book in your favourite reading spot or spending time with family and friends. You might want to take a picture to stick in your homework book.	Challenge accepted! Can you create Sir Titus Salt using papier mache? 	School are launching a sponsored readathon. Taking part in the readathon will count as your reading homework this half term.	Write a song or a rap about the change of seasons.
Go for a scooter or bike ride to your local park or to the canal. Make the most of the better weather (fingers crossed). Could you take a picnic?	Pretend you are Sir Titus Salt. Can you create your own model village. You can sketch it or build it. Explain what is in your village and why.	Choose a non-fiction book you have read this half term. Can you create a fact file with 10 different facts the book taught you?	Write a story from the perspective of a mill worker.
